EXPLORE MYKONOS

Ubertyrendy Mykonos, regularly included in Top World Island Lists, is a rather small island in the Cyclades drawing every year an amazing mix of jetsetters, families and tourists, who come here not only for the sandy lace beaches, but for the party scene and the glamorous atmosphere. Stroll around the narrow marble streets with the stylish shops and restaurants, admire the whitewashed houses with vivid colorful doors and discover hidden churches with purple bloom bougainvilleas in their yards.

The island of winds, as locals call it, started spreading its fame in the middle of 1950's when the first visitors started to arrive in the island. It is well known for its afternoon beach parties and when you wonder around the alleys at night you will always feel that the night is always "young" and that you can keep partying till the first morning hours.

Enjoy the sunset at the Little Venice area with the picture perfect windmills and then head for a cocktail in one of the waterfront bars that capture all the Aegean magic.

HISTORY AND CULTURE

Spend a day in the sacred place of Delos – on UNESCO’s World Heritage List!

Delos is one of the most important mythological, historical and archaeological sites in Greece as the excavations in the island are among the most rich and extensive in the Mediterranean. A wonderful family destination, where young travelers are invited to discover the birthplace of Apollo and Artemis through the words of the necessary guide that that can take you back in time and the ancient life of the island. A must see is the Maritime Museum which focuses on Greek maritime history and tradition and specializes in the merchant-ship history of the Aegean Sea.

Don’t miss the Paraportiani church in the neighborhood of Kastro; this impressive, whitewashed church actually consists of five separate churches which are joined in one. Wander around and discover the numerous churches on the island which according to tradition each family used to build one. This is the reason why you can count 800 chapels on this rather small island.

ARTS

Whether you want to buy art, or just browse through contemporary creations of Greek and international artists, visit one of the numerous galleries located on the island. They usually host exhibitions from contemporary, innovative and awarded Greek & foreign artists with the top rated “Rarity Gallery” which also organizes private viewings upon request.

BEACHLIFE

The beaches of Mykonos are famous for their golden sand and their crystal clear waters, offering great sport facilities, beach life fun and partying. Most of them are located on the southern lacy coast and are better protected from the August wind coming mostly from the north.

The beaches of Paradise and Super Paradise are famous for their long-lasting beach parties. The rocky landscape and the watersports make it a perfect playground for non-stop fun. At The Pinky and the Super Paradise beach bars, guests dance to the rhythm of guest DJ's till the sunset. Don't miss to visit Jackie O bar-restaurant, which is famous for its daily afternoon drag queen show and the impeccable Greek dishes prepared by famous chefs.

Psarou Beach and Nammos Restaurant need no introduction – they are the absolute posh places of the Mykonian beach life with celebrities enjoying the sun, sipping champagne, dancing on their sun-beds, next to the turquoise waters.

Beaches on the northern coast of Mykonos, such as Ftelia and Alemagou, are less organized, attract younger boho travelers but these northern facing spots are loved by surfers and kite surfers alike.

Platis Gialos is a more family style beach with numerous traditional beachfront taverns and organized watersports clubs for our young friends. If you want to head away from the crowded beaches of the southern part of the island, head north to Agios Sostis, one of the nicest and most relaxed beaches of Mykonos. There aren't any sunbeds or umbrellas and you can dare to take off your bathing suit at the end of the large beach. Last but not least, try a boat ride to the non organized Kapari each, which is facing Delos and enjoys magnificent sunsets.
